Baack, Donald and Kenneth E. Clow. Integrated Advertising, Promotion, and Marketing Communications. Upper Saddle River, New Jersey: Prentice-Hall, 2002.

For students and faculty engaged in the field of integrated communications, this textbook adopts a broader approach than traditional advertising or promotions texts. The authors develop an integrated learning experience by incorporating Internet exercises and by allowing students to participate in campaign projects. Free Advertising Plan Pro software is included in every textbook.

Cummings, Maeve, et al. Management Information Systems for the Information Age, 3rd edition. Boston: Irwin / McGraw Hill, 2002.

In this revised edition the authors have provided a more flexible organization of the textbook by incorporating extended learning modules. Significant content changes and additions are highlighted in the preface. For the instructor, five support components – resource guide, manual, test bank, PowerPoint slide presentation, and Web site – are included.

Hurley, David Ross. Handel's Muse; Patterns of Creation in His Oratorios And Musical Dramas, 1743-1751. New York: Oxford University Press, 2001.

This book represents the most thorough study to date of Handel's compositional procedures in his English oratorios and musical dramas. The author examines six major works composed between 1743 and 1751, products of Handel's mature years, that are categorized as secular "musical drama" and Biblical oratorio.
