GREETINGS

TO OUR STUDENTS, NEW AND OLD, OF KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, PITTSBURG

The Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg is an institution for higher learning which is dear to the hearts of thousands of alumni and former students. Because of the experiences which they have had here, and since we believe there are opportunities here for your educational growth, for happy associations, and for personal achievement, we welcome you as members of the student body, whether you come now for the first time, or whether you return to renew your associations here.

Your college life holds a two-fold responsibility. The first responsibility is toward yourself. Plan your college program carefully. Study to enlarge your storehouse of useful information, select judiciously from the large offering of well planned courses, participate in the extensive extracurricular program, and take advantage of the opportunity to add many to your list of friends. These are offered you during your college attendance here.

The second responsibility is for your college. We are located in an important industrial area and in a splendid city. You will find here a beautiful campus provided with splendid buildings, and adequate equipment, and a spirit that characterizes a great college. The administration, the faculty, the student body, and the people of the community are friendly and coöperative. I bid you all to join us in perpetuating these distinctive traits.

In becoming a member of the Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg we believe you have signified that you want to have a part in its development, as well as your own. In accepting it as yours, you, also, assume a responsibility for its welfare.

We wish you adventure, happiness, and success in your college life.

REES H. HUGHES, President.

HISTORY OF THE KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

In the very beginning of the twentieth century, a man had a dream and saw a vision. The dream was of educational opportunities for any and all types of children and youth. The vision was of our college as we have it today. The dreamer and doer, the man who had the vision, was R. S. Russ, the founder of the school. A hard legislative battle was won when, on February 26, 1903, the following entry was made in the statute books of the state of Kansas: "Section 1. That there be, and hereby is established, at Pittsburg, Kan., an auxiliary manual training school."

As the manual arts had been entirely neglected, not only in the school system of Kansas but in most of the systems all over the United States, this school had for its main objective the training of teachers for wood and metal work, and home economics. The school at that time was auxiliary to the Normal School at Emporia. It opened its doors in a small ward school building of the city of Pittsburg, September 3, 1903, with a faculty of five and a student body of 43. Its friends were few and its total appropriation was but $18,000 to meet all expenses for the first two years.

The 43 years of existence of this college is a thrilling story of the wisdom of the founder and the leadership of those in charge of its policies and purposes. Its progress and popularity have been marvelous. The enrollment for the first year was 143, which grew to 5,364 by 1925-1926. This was reduced by the depression and later by World War II, but it is now on its way to greater numbers than ever.

In 1913, the college became independent and its name was changed from the Auxiliary Manual Training School to The Kansas State Manual Training Normal School. Dr. W. A. Brandenburg was chosen as its first president, and served until his death, October 29, 1940. In 1923, in recognition of advancement in academic standards, the name of the institution was again changed, to the Kansas State Teachers College of Pittsburg. In 1941, Rees H. Hughes was appointed president. He has struggled efficiently with the many problems arising out of World War II, and with notable success.

The school was at first housed in one of the city buildings at 5th and Pine streets, which is now known as the Central Grade School. In 1908, the College moved into its first real home which is the Russ Hall of today. After a destructive fire occurring June 29, 1914, Russ Hall was rebuilt in 1915. Industrial Arts building was erected in 1913, and other buildings were placed on the campus at frequent intervals until we have it as it is today.

The curriculum was broadened until the function of the College is not only to prepare teachers for every field of instruction but also to give students an opportunity to obtain a general college education. A glance at the present catalogue will show the many curricula and opportunities for study.

During its short history, it has issued 21,895 teaching credentials ranging from a one-year certificate to the master's degree. Its graduates are teaching in every State in the Union and in most of the countries in the world.

Its educational standing has been recognized by the leading educational accrediting agencies of the United States.

The College has been active in all educational movements, local, state, and national. President Brandenburg, at his death, was president of the American Association of Teachers Colleges; Dr. Jane M. Carroll was president of the Kansas State Teachers Association, 1945-1946; and Professor E. E. Stonecipher was elected president of the department of rural education of the National Education Association in 1945 and reelected in 1946. Dr. Carroll and Professor Stonecipher are both alumni of the institution. President Hughes is chairman of the Educational Planning Commission of the Kansas State Teachers Association. He has served in many and important positions, both state and national, in the field of education, and in civic organizations.

Five hundred twenty-two alumni and students served in World War I, and the college gave rehabilitation training to 557 veterans of that war. Two thousand five hundred and fifty-two alumni and students served in World War II, and the College is still further aiding in the training of veterans assigned to its campus. At present approximately 1,300 are enrolled.

The alumni of the College are scattered over practically every part of the world and are engaged in all types of constructive work.

Steps in the growth of the College:

1. 1903—Establishment by the legislature.
2. 1905—Appropriation for building site.
3. 1907—Appropriation for first building.
4. 1908—Occupation of first real home.
5. 1911—Appropriation for Industrial Arts building.
6. 1913—Independence and first president.
Granting of first degrees.
Appropriation for heating plant.
7. 1914—Burning of Russ Hall.
8. 1917—Appropriation for Science Hall.
9. 1921—Appropriation for Cafeteria, Gymnasium, and Dormitory.

10. 1925—Appropriation for Library building.
11. 1928—Appropriation for Music Hall.
12. 1929—Granting of master's degree.
13. 1941—Appointment of our present president,
Rees H. Hughes.

TRADITIONS OF K. S. T. C.

Our College, even if it is still young, has acquired some valuable and outstanding traditions. As traditions are vital in creating lasting impressions of the College, and as they are the essence of school spirit and loyalty, it is very important that each student, in order to get the most out of college life, should have some knowledge and understanding of the habits and customs that have grown into traditions on our campus.

The ideals of the founder of the College, R. S. Russ, have formed the basis for the tradition which outweighs all other traditions, both in validity and popularity: The tradition that the College at all times shall encourage, foster, and maintain a democratic, friendly spirit; that it shall always be the policy of the institution never to tolerate anything that would not conserve and promote democracy of relationships; that nothing except worthiness, regardless of financial or social status, is necessary for recognition and standing with the institution or faculty.

These ideals have been carefully guarded since the founding of the school. Principal Russ formulated them; Principal Myers, during his two years of service, made a significant contribution; and the first president, William A. Brandenburg, in his long years of service, held to them, strengthened them, and emphasized them as the years passed. President Hughes and the present faculty are just as effectively conserving these traditions, the first of which is that of a friendly and democratic spirit and attitude.

Another ideal that has become a tradition is that education should be universal; that every boy and girl should have an opportunity to have the type of training which would make for efficient citizenship in some line of endeavor.

A tradition that is almost as old as the College itself is the "Apple Treat" which occurs on the day celebrated as Founders Day. This is celebrated not only on the campus but in all places where several alumni are able to get together. At this time school history is reviewed, the apple story told or dramatized, and the faculty pass out apples.

Homecoming day which usually is held about the first week in November is another of the prized customs of the College. At this time all organizations of the College which maintain residence houses compete in a contest in house decoration. The organizations keep open house for returning alumni. There are various other get-together functions with a football game and a banquet.

Each fall at the regional meetings of the State Teachers Association the alumni of the College get together for dinner meetings to receive first-hand news of the College and to renew old friendships and exchange greetings.

The graduating class of 1906 started the custom of the outgoing class leaving a memorial to the school. They presented the Winged Victory, Nike, with the idea that each class would give a piece of statuary, thus making a museum collection. The class of 1907 followed with Apollo, and that of 1908 with Minerva. The classes then decided that each class should choose the type of gift to be presented, but each class has given a memorial. The gift of the class of 1941 was the portrait of President Brandenburg, painted by William Bowen, an alumnus of the College. It hangs at the head of the marble stairs. Other class gifts have been the lights in the library; the front entrance to the college campus; and contributions toward the Student Union Building.

Another custom that has gained much headway is that of each year having a Silver Reunion Dinner for alumni on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation.

A custom that is very impressive is that of the graduating classes and faculty in academic regalia, on convocation day, marching around the oval to the strains of the KSTC march as it is played by the band located in the center of the oval.

A beautiful pageant has recently been added to the campus activities. On one evening during the Christmas season faculty and students again march around the oval carrying candles and singing carols.

THE SCHOOL SONGS

"Crimson and Gold," which is the official "Alma Mater" song, was written in 1910 by Lena Martin, a freshman, who is now editor of The Alumnian, and wife of Dr. Ralph H. Smith, a member of the College faculty.

Crimson and Gold

On the plains of southeast Kansas
'Neath an ever cloudless sky,
Far away from surging ocean
And the storm-bird's plaintive cry,
With her prairies rolling westward
Where the Redman once roamed free;
With her ensign proudly waving,
Stands our dear K. S. T. C.

CHORUS:

Let us greet the Gold and Crimson
With a strong and cordial cheer;
Let our hearts be ever loyal
To our Alma Mater dear!

Let her worthy sons and daughters
For our College proudly stand,
Shielding zealously her honor
In one brave unbroken band;
Let them hold aloft her banner
With a stout and steady arm,
Rallying her children round her
From the city, town, and farm.

SCHOOL YELLS

BUILDINGS

Russ Hall

Russ Hall is the administration building. It is the oldest and largest building on the campus. A four-story structure, it was erected in 1907-1908 and rebuilt after a serious fire in 1914. Besides the administration offices it houses the departments of Commerce, Language and Literature, Education and Psychology, Social Science, Mathematics, and also the Junior-Senior Training High Schools.

Science Hall

Science Hall, erected in 1918-1919, is a three story brick building, on the east side of the campus. It contains the auditorium with a seating capacity of 2,200, and the offices, recitation rooms, and laboratories of the departments of Biology, Chemistry, and Home Economics. The Student Health Center, the office of the school nurse, and two well-equipped social rooms are in this building.

Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts building, erected in 1912, provides complete and commodious facilities for instruction in industrial, fine, and applied arts.

Mechanic Arts

The Mechanic Arts building, completed in 1927, is devoted, for the most part, to aeronautics and automobile mechanics, physics, and preengineering work. It is a fireproof building, well adapted to the use for which it was designed, located at the southeast corner of the campus.

Athletic Field and Stadium

Brandenburg Field furnishes ample facilities for outdoor athletics. It contains a well-graded football field, around which is a modern quarter-mile cinder track with a 220-yard straightaway 25 feet wide. Adjacent to the regular field are practice fields for football, soccer, tennis, hockey, baseball, and allied activities. At present these fields are in temporary use for veterans' housing units. On the east and west sides of the field are two modern reinforced concrete stands with a combined seating capacity of 8,000. The entire field is enclosed in a seven-foot brownstone wall.

Music Hall

Music Hall is thought by many to be the most beautiful building on the campus in its interior finish. Its spacious lobby, compact auditorium, and many studios, classrooms, and soundproof practice rooms have served to enhance the place of music in the lives of students and the residents of the community.

Porter Library

Porter Library was erected in 1927 and named in honor of the late Senator E. F. Porter of Pittsburg, who, as a legislator, was an active friend and supporter of the College interests in the matter of appropriations.

It houses the complete College Library, the Junior-Senior High-School Library, the Harry H. Hall Museum, the College Honor Roll of World War II, and a U. S. Branch Post Office.

Gymnasium

The Department of Health and Physical Education is housed in a well appointed two-story brick structure that provides a floor unit 96 x 146 feet. This is surrounded by a balcony and floor-seating arrangement that accommodates approximately 2,500 spectators. A folding partition separates the floor unit into separate practice areas for men and women. Offices for the staff are at opposite ends of the second floor. The lower floor houses a large swimming pool, showers, lockers, and classrooms.

Horace Mann Elementary School

The Horace Mann Elementary School, built in 1927, is located across the street, north of the campus. It is a modern building, fireproof and well lighted, arranged on the unit plan, with a group of rooms for each grade from kindergarten through the sixth. There are also several special rooms including auditorium, clinic, demonstration room, and library. It provides accommodations for 250 children and a large number of college students engaged in observation, participation, and supervised teaching.

Frances Willard Hall

Frances Willard Hall is a commodious four-story fireproof dormitory, fully equipped with parlors and rooming accommodations for 114 college women. The hall is across the street and south of the main campus.

The Cafeteria

The Cafeteria building, located on the oval near the southeast corner of the grounds, is equipped to serve 1,500 persons for three meals a day. The Annex is used also for social dancing and other gatherings.

Home Management House

The Home Management House, located south of the west Stadium, is an eight-room modern dwelling that serves as a laboratory for all Home Economics majors in the period of time that they live in the house and assume the responsibility of household management.

Christian Association Buildings

The YMCA building, located at 306 East Lindburg street, just south of the campus, provides recreational facilities and a meeting place for men students and members of the faculty.

The YWCA cottage, at 111½ East Williams street, one block north of the campus, provides a social center for all students, and a resident hostess in charge.

Mines Building

The Mines building is located in the center of the north side of the campus, and houses the Mine Rescue Board and the geological, meteorological, and mineralogy classrooms.

Heating Plant

The central heating plant, across Lindburg street, south of the Cafeteria, heats all the buildings on the campus. High-pressure steam is conveyed to each building through specially constructed tunnels. These tunnels also contain the cables for electric service and the intercommunicating telephone system.

Veterans' Housing

One of the latest additions to campus facilities is the veterans' housing units located north of the stadium. Erected through the joint coöperation of the federal government, College, and City of Pittsburg, they provide accommodations for families of 104 veterans of World War II. Seventy-one are reserved for the use of KSTC students, and 33 for other Pittsburg families.

Work is also nearing completion on a 160-room dormitory, which is being moved from the Kansas Ordnance Plant at Parsons to a site near the present units.

Temporary Classroom Building

The wooden structure facing Joplin street, located between the Mechanic Arts Building and Science Hall, houses shops, laboratories, and classrooms used in the vocational education program. Necessitated by the greatly expanded enrollments of the last year or two, this is a temporary building constructed of units moved to the campus from the Coffeyville, Kansas, Air Base.

Projected Buildings

Plans are being made for the erection of two new buildings on the campus as soon as circumstances permit. Four hundred fifty thousand dollars has been appropriated by the state legislature for the construction of a secondary school building, which will be located across the street north of the campus and west of the Horace Mann Laboratory School. The College High School, which is now housed on the first floor of Russ Hall, serves as a laboratory where students preparing to teach in the secondary school can observe and participate in the supervised teaching of high school students. Every effort is being made to design the new high school building so that it will incorporate the most up-to-date features and make possible the best instructional program.

Plans for a Student Union Building have been in the process of development for several years, and sufficient funds have been raised from student fees and contributions from the faculty and alumni to make a building possible in the near future. While a site has not been definitely selected, the most probable location is on the north side of the campus between Porter Library and the Gymnasium. The Union Building will provide a focal point for extracurricular activities on the campus, which are regarded as an important part of the educational program of KSTC. Among the facilities which will be housed here are lunch rooms, meeting rooms, dance hall, music room, book store, soda bar, game rooms, and possibly a cafeteria.

INTERESTING SPOTS ON THE CAMPUS

College Entrance

The formal entrance to the College, on Broadway, adds to the general beauty of the campus. Wide steps lead from the street-level to a flagged terrace that is approximately 40 by 20 feet, and is flanked on either side by a low wall of stone and brick. Seats surrounding the walls make it a popular retreat or resting place. Additional steps lead on up to the wide front walk and the front doors of Russ Hall.

The entrance was built in 1940 as a gift from the senior classes of 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1940.

The Campus and the Oval

The campus contains approximately 55 acres. Russ hall, which fronts Broadway, sits well back from the street. Other buildings are set close to the streets that border the campus thus forming a large rectangular open space in the center. A wide walk, called the "Oval," completely encircles this open area and connects all the instructional buildings including Porter Library.

Inside the oval are lovely shade trees and inviting seats of Carthage stone. All the buildings have foundation plantings of ornamental evergreens; many shrubs make shady nooks; and there are large beds of blooming plants and flowers from early spring until late fall.

College Lake

The College Lake is just east of Brandenburg Field, and with its landscaped grounds is one of the campus beauty spots. It furnishes a setting suitable for quiet

A light fall of snow completely changes the appearance of the campus solitude, for companionable strolls along the "lake" shores, for bonfires, athletic rallies, and all-school picnics.

The Museum

The Museum of Natural Science and History occupies the entire third and fourth floors of Porter Library. It contains interesting and valuable collections of zoölogical, botanical, and paleontological life; mineral and geological specimens; coin and currency collections; war collections; historical materials; exhibits of ethnological and anthropological cultures, and a fine arts gallery.

Astronomical Observatory

The College has an observatory on the roof of Russ Hall in which is mounted a ten-inch, equatorial, refracting telescope of good optical and mechanical properties. This telescope is electrically driven and has several features which are usually found only on much larger instruments.

The observatory with its equipment is primarily for work in astronomy and related science courses, but frequent opportunities are given students and the public to use the telescope.

Art Room

The Art Gallery, located on the second floor of Music Hall, contains a collection of paintings, etchings, and other works of art which have been presented to the institution by individuals, special groups, and the College Art Club.

William A. Brandenburg Portrait

A large oil portrait of the late President William A. Brandenburg hangs at the head of the marble stairs in Russ Hall and is perpetually lighted. The portrait was a memorial gift by the Senior Class of 1941. It was painted by an art student and graduate of the College, William Bowen, Weir, Kan.

Service Flag

The service flag which hangs to the right in the front of the College Auditorium in Science Hall displays 63 gold stars each of which represents one of our former students who gave his life in service for our country during World War II.

Honor Roll

The Honor Roll occupies the south wall space of the main lobby in Porter Library. Here are recorded the names of the 2,552 students of KSTC who served in the armed forces during World War II. Seventy-seven of these are names of women, and 63 are of gold star members.

Trophy Cases

The plaques, cups, and other awards which fill the trophy cases to be found at the entrance to Porter Library and on the second floor of the gymnasium bear ample testimony to the prowess of KSTC athletes in all sports. The names of many outstanding athletes of former years are to be found engraved on these trophies, which serve as an inspiration to each new generation of KSTC students.

CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

The campus walks are crowded between classes

PLAT OF T

IE CAMPUS

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the student governing body. It is composed of twelve members, including a president chosen by ballot from the student body at large, four class presidents, one additional representative from each class, and three representatives at large.

The Student Council was organized in 1919. Since its organization, it has been given many additional responsibilities. At present, the Student Council has charge of All-School Parties, Student Forum Meetings, School Elections, and Special Assembly Programs. The student members of many committees are appointed by the Council, and it has numerous other duties which aid students and faculty alike.

HONORARY SOCIETIES

Membership

The reporters and editors are selected from the journalism classes, for which it serves as an effective laboratory, and its printers and pressmen are students in the printing classes of the College. The purpose of the publication is to give a faithful and complete record of College activities, and consequently it holds much interest for all students and alumni. The Collegio is sent to the libraries of all Kansas high schools.

The Educational Leader

The Educational Leader is published by the faculty of the College, semiannually in November and March. Each issue is the product of four departments and reflects the academic and professional activities being carried on by the respective staffs. Besides the articles, there are columns devoted to specific mention of faculty, alumni, and outstanding activities of the College, both on the campus and in the field.

The Gleaner

The Gleaner is published in October, December, February, and April by the Bureau of Rural Education. Its purpose is to glean from the field of rural education the worthwhile things that are being done and to publish contributions from workers in the field. It is mailed free to all county superintendents, rural, consolidated, and village administrators of the state and, on request to teachers, board members, and patrons.

The Alumnian

The Alumnian is a magazine published in the interest of the alumni. It is issued twice a year, spring and autumn, and is mailed free to Degree graduates who are members of the Alumni Association, and to holders of 60-hour life certificates who have affiliated with the Alumni Association as associate members.
