Foreword

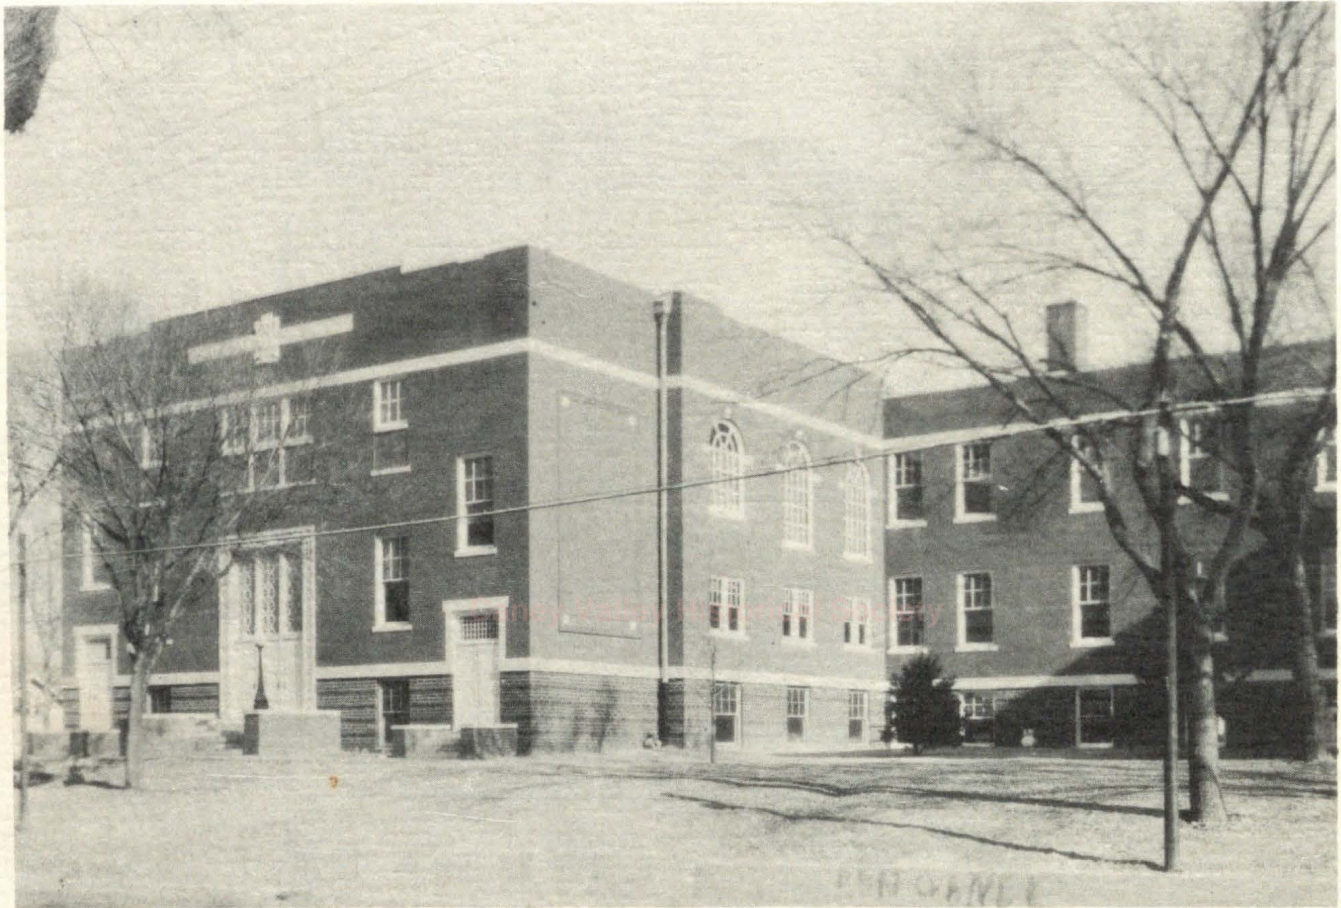

We,
the Senior Class, present to you this volume as a record of the events in this school during the past year. It has been our aim to edit a book which in after years will be read and reread with pleasure and bring back to its owner happy memories of this school.

Dedication

To Show,
to the extent of our ability,
our appreciation for the support given to us and to all activities in our school,
by our friends and sponsors,
we dedicate this annual,
The Kane Kar, to Miss
Anne Berger and Mr. Roy Stanton.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

On September 7, 1936, sixty-two students enrolled in the Sophomore class. This year found George Long leading the class as president, Marjorie Boulanger as vice-president and Mary Edith Harkness as secretary-treasurer. The sponsors were Miss Lelia Hemphill and Miss Amne Berger.

The class was represented in all the various outside activities. Marjorie Boulanger received the first prize in the American Legion essay contest and Eloise Boles was the nominee for the Carnival Queen.

September 3, 1937, forty-five members were enrolled in the Junior class under the presidency of Martha Young, assisted by Betty Louise Riggs as vice-president and Mary Edith Harkness as secretary-treasurer. In this year Eloise Boles was elected Queen of the annual High School Carnival. The first all school dance of the year was sponsored by the Juniors.

The most interesting event of the year was on April twentieth, when the Junior class was hostess to the Senior class of nineteen-thirty-eight with the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. The Holland motif was carried out by a wind-mill arrangement of the tables and table decorations of tulips, Dutch boys and girls. After the banquet, the tables were cleared away and dancing followed to the music of Al Forley and his Orchestra.

September 5, 1938 found forty-seven Seniors enrolled for the last stage of a successful journey.

Many students entered into extra-curricular activities this year. In sports, we recall Boggs, Souders, M. Harris, Bradford, Ingmire, Cofer, Denman, McClure, McNichols, also Pearsall who was chosen as All Conference tackle and Honorary Captain of the home team. Many Senior girls participated in the Senior-High Pepperette Club. This group was lead by M. Harkness, assisted by B. Riggs and K. Townsell with M. Boulanger as cheerleader.

Numerous members of the class have participated in the musical organizations. The band, orchestra and glee club have received many awards from contests that they entered.

Many Seniors were prominent in the Playmaker organization. Martha Young was chosen president. This group presented a play December 13, 1938, entitled, "Bashful Mr. Bobbs." In the cast were M. Young, D. Mahon, M. Gregg, B. Riggs, M. McNichol, and J. R. Forman.

The staff of our school paper, the Nakenak, was composed of Seniors, Marjorie Boulanger and Betty Riggs being co-editors.

Truly delightful was the Junior-Senior Banquet of 1939, given by the Juniors, April 21 in the gymnasium.

In April 1939 the play entitled, "Peter, Beware", was presented by some of our most talented members.

To become a desirable class, the class must be led by strong personalities. The officers of the Senior class were M. Harkness, G. Long, Jr. McClure, and B. Riggs. To our most efficient sponsors, Miss Berger and Mr. Stanton, we owe a great debt of gratitude for our success through the past years.

We, the Senior class of 1939 are about to graduate into a new and broader field, hoping that the goals and standards which we have reached may be remembered and upheld by the oncoming classes of Caney High School.

Junior Class History

On September 6, 1937 fifty-six sailors started on a trans-high school voyage. Their officers were Raymond McQuillen, Ray Smith, and Gilda Wilson. The admirals of this class were Miss Gertrude Hunt and Mr. Dave Evans.

These sailors were well represented in all the outside activities of the school. Mabel Chastain was chosen queen of this ship.

On September 5, the Juniors launched their new 1938 C. H. S. ship with fifty-nine members on board. The crew chose James Wilson as captain, Robert Graves as commander, Mary Ellen Wemmer and Shirley Carinder as pursers.

These sailors were active in the glee club, playmakers, pepperettes, orchestra, and basketball.

Many of the boys play on the football team, Jim Roth is now on the All-Star Team of the South Central Kansas League. Robert Graves, Jack Howard, R. C. Mattix are on the second All-Star Team.

Mary Ellen Wemmer was our carnival nominee for queen. We tried two new ideas at the carnival; a Night Club and dance, both of which proved very successful. The pirates will entertain the Seniors April 21 at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet.

The admirals of this crew are Miss Gertrude Hunt and Mr. Jack Oliver.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

September 5, 1938 fifty-four students enrolled in the Sophomore class ready for another step toward their goal of success. These Sophomores of '38 chose as their officers: Emery Pierce, president; Dennis Harkness, vice president; Polly Bridenstine, secretary; Geneva Drybread, treasurer.

Throughout the school year many have taken part in extra curricular activities. The boys participated mainly in athletics, Canney making the first team in football and Bowen the first team in basketball. Many Sophomore girls took part in the Pepperettes, Playmakers, Glee Club, Band and Orchestra.

While carrying their banner of rose and silver, and their class flower, the rose, these students under the guidance of Mrs. Williams and Miss Ruth Barnard, have been living their motto: "Rowing, Not Drifting."

The season of 1939 was the most successful of any ever completed by a Caney team. The junior Bullpups played a total of 27 games without a loss. In the course of the season they rang up a total of 760 points to their opponents 345. All of the teams in this section were easily defeated. Three trophies were placed in the case, one for the Moline tournament, one for the Caney tournament and one for the South Central Kansas League. This year's team produced several outstanding boys who should furnish a basis for some good high school teams here in the future.

Jim Wilson: "I must have been born unlucky."

S. Woods: "Why?"

Jim: "Well, I was at a football match yesterday, and there were twenty-two players and a referee on the field, about 20,000 spectators on the ground, and the ball hit me."

Miss Barnard: "I have went.
That's wrong, isn't it?"

Paula E: "Yes, ma'am."

Miss Barnard: "Why is it wrong?"

Paula E: "Because you ain't went yet."

B. Martin: "Could you love
two girls at the same time?" R. McQuillen: "Sure, have you got a friend?"

Miss Kretsinger: "Did you
miss any of the five questions?"

J. Roth: "Yes, I missed the first two and the last three."

Miss Berger: "Has absolute zero been discovered yet?"

C. Bingham: "Yes, ma'am"

Miss Berger: "Where; I have never heard of it?"

C. Bingham: "On my grade card."

Cofer: "I couldn't stand to see a lady stand while I was sitting."

Alma S. "So you gave her your seat?"

Cofer: "No, I put on eye glasses and pretended I was blind."

Norma Adams: "Are you the new life guard here?"

Brick: "Why yes, who are you?"

Norma: "Oh, just the gal's
who's about to drown."

B. Riggs: "You are dreadfully pale! Something terrible must have happened."

V. Nason: "Yes, the drugstore was closed."

Miss Coldwell (in biology)
Where is a suitable place for cattails to grow?

Jim Bowen: "Why on cats, I guess."

M. Wemmer: "Do you like me?"

J. Bowen: "Don't be silly.
What do you think I bought you that coke for last week?"

Mr. Haymaker: "What is the most potent poison?"

George Mitchell: "An airo-plane; one drop and you're dead!"

G. Boggs: "I'm as famous as George Washington."

P. Ingmire: "How's that?"

G. Boggs: (Gazing at report card) I went down in history today."

Floyd Moreland: "Say, what is a good remedy for freckles?"

Wiley S.: "Try sandpaper."

"I am going to learn to swim this summer."

"I thought Tom taught you last summer."

"But I am no longer engaged to Tom."

Laura M. B.: "What can I do to have soft beautiful hands?"

Miss Coldwell: "Nothing,
Laura Mae, and do it all day."

K. Townsell: "You aren't going to let a blond steal
your boy friend are you?"

M. Gregg: "Never--I'll dye first."

J. Carinder: "Say your shoes are mixed you've got the left shoe on the right foot."

M. Harris: "And, here for eighteen years, I thought I was clubfooted."

In English-- M. L.: "What makes our grades so low in quizzes?"

Mrs. Jones: "Why, I suspect
it is because the questions are not answered properly."

Sophomore's wail:

I want to be a Senior
And with the Seniors
stand,
A fountain pen behind
my ear
A notebook in my hand
For angles have to sing
I wouldn't be an angel
I'd rather be a senior
And never do a thing.

Ed Canny: "Does Joan talk
in her sleep?"

Mary H.: "No, and it's exasperating, she only smiles."

Mr. Stanton: "Murray, are you eating candy or chewing gum?"

Murray: "No, I'm just soaking a prune to eat in Study Hall next hour."

Doc: "Do you know my friend
Ray Sullivan?"

Fred Jack: "Yeh, I used to sleep with him."

Doc: "Oh, roommates."

Fred: "No, classmates."

Dick Perryman was sent to the bakery for some hot cross buns,

Baker: "What will you have Dick?"

Dick: "I want fifteen cents worth of cross-eyed buns."

P. Ingmire: "I've been exercising with the dumb-bells down in the gym."

M. McNichol: "Who were the others?"
