KANSAS STATE COLLEGE OF PITTSBURG

REPERTORY THEATRE

PRESENTS

These three scenes depict the nature of the young man destined to become one of England's most illustrious kings. Prince Hal's youth is shown in all its aspects ranging from raucous humour, with the infamously funny Jack Falstaff, to the boy's apprehension of the awesome responsibility of the English throne, as shown in the Prince's confrontation scene with his father, Henry IV.

Repertory Theatre is a community service of the Speech and Theatre Department of Kansas State College of Pittsburg. It is under the direction of Dr. Cary Clasz. These scenes are directed by David Froman, and Stage managed by Robert Finney.
