Band Promises Varied Program Valentine's Eve

Selections New To High School
Audience To Be Played.

Admission Will Be 10c

Several Soloists Will Add To
Novelty, Director Says;
Chime Effect, Also.

Those who plan to attend the benefit band concert, Feb. 13, have a varied and interesting program in store for them.

The band, larger this year than ever before, will play some "brand new numbers," never played in Pittsburg before.

Charles Duncan, senior who won first place in baritone horn solo at the college in 1934 and won superior rating last year at Emporia, will play "The Volunteers" (Simmons) in the concert a week from Thursday.

"Prelude" (Beghon), a very modern piece and "The Children's March" (Goldman), a medley of nursery rhymes, are among those to be given by the 75-piece band.

Surprising Novel Number

As a surprising novel number, Mr. Gerald M. Carney, director, has included "Universal Judgment" (DeNardis). The piece portrays what will happen on Judgment Day. Suddenly, in the middle of the selection, the music stops and the trumpeters of the angel choir appear. Three trumpeters from the back of the auditorium and three from each side will herald the appearance of Gabriel. This effect makes necessary the addition of junior high school band members and is regarded as a true tone poem.

The boys' glee club will sing "The Bells of St. Mary's" accompanied by the band and cathedral chimes.

Edward Hood, senior, will play a cornet solo, "Carnival of Venice" (Clark). This number is, Mr. Carney says, a famous and difficult cornet solo.

A concert arrangement of the well-known "Turkey in the Straw" (Guilor) is also to be given on the program Valentine's Eve.

Comedy Part

As a bit of comedy the band will present "Five Ways to Play the Military Escort" (Fillmore). First it will play the selection as it was originally written. Then Arthur Blair, dressed as Mascagni, composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana," will direct the band in a flourish of symphonic music. After this, Charles Duncan will lead the band as Strauss who wrote "The Blue Danube" would have led it. "The Military Escort" will be played played as a modern jazz band would play it. Jack Cheyne will be the maestro. As the fifth and final arrangement, directed by Ed Hood, the band will play as a military band passing in review would play it.

Betty Dorsey, senior, will play a piano solo accompanied by the band. "The Clock and the Dresden Figures" (Keteldy) tells the story of two Dresden-China figures standing on each side of a clock. They come to life and dance to the ticking of the clock; after while the clock goes wrong. The spring breaks suddenly and the two figures run back to their former positions.

As a final number, one which features the snare drums and the trumpets, the band will play "Semper Fidelis" (Souza).

The price of admission is 10¢ for all.

PRESIDENT PRODUCER

Records of the past five years show that freshman class presidents at the college have been from Pittsburg high school according to the Collegio. The first of the five presidents was Clinton Phelps; second, Milton Zacharias; third, Leland Cox; fourth, Jack Myers; fifth, Bill Murphy, the present head of the class.

Winner Will Go

In order for the Pittsburg debate team to enter the tournament at Lawrence it would be necessary for it to place first at the district tournament at Parsons, Feb. 14. The winner will represent district No. 3 in the state tourney.

Life is not to live but to be well.

Ten Students Enter Debate Tournament

Betty Dorsey, Ella Bowman, Ivan Adams, and Roscoe Jones.

Those composing the second team are Keith Boling, Gordon Van Pelt, Joe Harrigan, Jim Ritter, Mary Montgomery, and Howard Marchbanks.

According to Mr. Row, there will be a free banquet given Friday night in honor of the debaters in the meet.

Teachers and Students Take Remote Trips During Vacation

Bailey, Stephens Visit Bayou-Teche Country, New Orleans,
Florida; Decker Sees 'Stars' of California;
Kessel Goes to Niagara Falls.

Several students and teachers of the high school took interesting trips during the 16-day Christmas vacation.

Dorothy Dene Decker, senior, spent her vacation with relatives in Los Angeles. While there she went to the "Hollywood Hotel," radio program starring Dick Powell, George Raft, actor and dancer, passed by in a car. She also saw the Rose Bowl Parade, but was unable to purchase tickets for the game.

Rollie Kessel, junior, spent his vacation in Niagara Falls. When questioned as to what he saw that was different, he replied, "Oh, nothing, I've been there eight times."

Miss Jessie Bailey, mathematics instructor and Miss Sara Stephens, English instructor, spent their vacation touring the South. To both, the Bayou-Teche country, where the Acadians landed, was the most interesting. They saw the buried place of the woman from which the character of Evangeline was taken, in St. Martinville, La.

In New Orleans they visited the French Quarter and went onto a ship from Honduras to watch the cargo of bananas being unloaded. They went through the kitchens at the French Quarter and watched them make pralines. They dined at Antoine's restaurant, famous the world over, and out of New Orleans they traveled for 120 miles on the ocean boulevard. They crossed the Suwannee river and the new Huey P. Long bridge, dedicated on Dec. 16, 1935.

Going into Florida they went as far as Daytona Beach. At Silver Springs they took a cruise in a glass-bottom boat and fed the fishes. They saw workers taking turpentine out of the trees and visited an orange packing plant.

Due to lack of time they could not go farther, but both expressed the desire to go back.

Glee Club Allowed To Sing Japanese Words of "Mikado"

"Miya-sama Miya-sama, omi"—the glee clubs were at last singing the Japanese words in one of the songs of the "Mikado," the opera they are now working on.

For weeks Mr. Gerald Carney, music instructor, had kept them in the dark, not letting them sing the actual words but something like, "la, la, la." Now they are really pronouncing the fascinating Japanese syllables.

Into each mind one single thought pervaded. What did the words mean? Finally one senior, it takes a senior, summoned enough courage to ask Mr. Carney what they meant, expecting to hear an extended translation.

Mr. Carney smiled, looked at the brave senior, and replied, "Don't be alarmed, those words mean absolutely nothing; they simply have a complicated sound!"

Amateurs Enter Slowly

Contest Postponed For Program By Treble Clef Club.

"Entries for the amateur contest are coming in slowly," said Mr. M. A. Nation, in charge of the assemblies. "Any students who desire to enter should turn in their names to their class sponsors," he added.

The amateur hour has been postponed until Feb. 7, because of the Treble Clef club program.

The Student Council is offering a cash prize to the winner.

It is planned to hold elimination contests for each class. Then the best acts will be chosen from this group. The Student Council officers and Mr. Nation's committee will choose the six best acts. These acts will be presented in chapel. The judges will be three persons not closely connected with the school.

Students Graduate.

Three students, Raymond Carter, Gerald Green, and George Washburn, graduated at the conclusion of the first semester today. George plans to enter college, but Raymond and Gerald have no definite plans.

TREBLE CLEF CLUB FEATURED IN MORNING'S ASSEMBLY

The Treble Clef club, a Pittsburg music organization, presented the program at the regular assembly this morning. Mrs. Clyde Hartford, wife of vocation instructor, was in charge of the program.

Various types of musical numbers were given, including vocal solos, duets, and piano solos.

Speech Classes Eat In Grandeur Here

Merriment, Food, Main Menu
Items; First Hour Class
Honored; Marchbanks
Toastmaster.

Mirth, merriment, toasts, and food were the main items on the menu at the speech class banquet last night in the cafeteria.

The banquet was in honor of the first hour class, which sold the most tickets to the speech plays, given here recently. The tables were set in banquet style. Paper plates and forks were used, each furnished by the hungry ones. Howard Marchbanks acted as toastmaster, and after-dinner speeches were given by different members of the speech department and the toast master.

After the banquet was served a program and games followed:

Guests, the first hour class, were Pauline Butler, Marshall Chambers, Jack Forbes, Arthur Denno, Rollie Emmitt, Lorraine Gire, Jacqueline Gore, Jim Hand, Dorothy Hanson, Kathleen Hanson, Iris Keplinger, Vernita Mooney, Lillian Phillippar, Marie Tims, and Gloria Wiles.

The first hour was the only class whose ticket sale reached the $20 mark. Pauline Butler, senior, deserves credit for selling $9.85 of this $20 total. Jack Forbes, senior, also deserves recognition for the school spirit displayed when he contributed 30 cents to the total of the first hour class to make the $20 mark, said Mr. William H. Row.

The committee in arranging the banquet was made up of Howard Marchbanks, Betty June Carder, Cora Montgomery and Mr. William H. Row, speech instructor.

Professor Reilly Returns From Expedition in Head-Hunters Land

Murderous Savage Band Captures Miller, Reddick, Instructor;
Captives Doomed To Disastrous Fate But Joe Saves
Their Lives by Flirtation.

Believe it or not!

In the high school is a professor of history from Harvard University, and he is not a member of the faculty.

Actually, Prof. Joe Basil Reilly has just returned from an expedition into the land of the head-hunters. Yes, savage head-hunters.

It so happens that the professor was captured by this murderous band and taken to their camp.

Who should be in the prison but Anne Reddick and Nevella Miller, also seniors, who had been captured that day while looking for ant eaters to the south of the camp. Upon seeing their friend the professor, they begged him to free them from their terrible fate.

What was Reilly to do? After all, he was a professor, and his knowledge was all wrapped up in history, not ways of escaping cannibals.

Just then in came a big brute of a savage and said, "One of you will have your head poked on a pole to-night; you decide who it is to be."

Upon the savage's departure Reilly, who didn't want to die before he had to, suggested that Anne and Nevella and he draw lots to see who would go first. Nevella was the unlucky one.

That night one of the head hunters took Nevella away.

According to the professor, these uncivilized tribesmen did not use the quick merciful method of the guillotine. Instead they cut the tendon (if there is one) in the front of the neck. The blood begins to flow. It flows,

Carney Has Row's Help This Year

Speech Instructor Directed The Mikado In 1930 at Pratt, Kas.

"We are fortunate," said Mr. Gerald M. Carney, director of music, to have a man who has coached the dramatic parts of "The Mikado" before. In 1930 Mr. William Row, speech instructor, directed the same opera for the Pratt, Kas., high school.

Mr. Row remarked that, in his opinion, the plot of "The Mikado" was the best of all the comedy-operas written by Gilbert and Sullivan.

"The Mikado" is the third Gilbert and Sullivan production to be given at the high school. In 1933 "H. M. S. Pinafore" was presented by the music department and "The Pirates of Penzance" was the main musical production of last year. Three members of this year's cast had leading parts in last year's opera. They are Rosemond Hutto, Bob Eystone, and Jack McQuitty.

Japanese Village Setting

The action takes place in the colorful town of Titipu, a Japanese village. Amidst the blooming cherry trees and tea gardens Nanki-Pooh (Bob Eystone) makes love to Yum-Yum (Rosemond Hutto) while Ko-Ko (Jack Overman) sings of his "snicker-snee" and the little "titwillow bird" Katisha (Vernita Mooney) claims her lover while Pitti-Sing (Muriel Richards) and Peep-Bo (Betty Dorsey) and Pish-Tush (Jack Forbes) laugh at her efforts. Pooh-Bah (Howard Marchbanks) can't forget "the diffidence due to me" and Jack McQuitty as the Mikado of Japan is both feared and loved by the care-free citizens of Titipu.

The plot of "The Mikado" is as follows:

"Nanki-Pooh, the son of Japan, flees from his father's court disguised as a wandering minstrel to escape the wiles of Katisha, an elderly lady who wishes to marry him. While thus disguised, Nanki-Pooh meets Yum-Yum and falls in love with her.

"Yum-Yum and her sisters, Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo, have all left school to prepare for Yum-Yum's wedding with Ko-Ko, her guardian who holds the office of Lord High Executioner. She loves Nanki-Pooh in return, but knows she must inevitably become the bride of her guardian.

Ko-Ko Ordered To Execute
"In despair Nanki-Pooh is about to kill himself but he is restrained by Ko-Ko, Pooh-Bah (Lord High Everything

Sunday morning candle lighting services at which all girls will be asked to wear white dresses will be conducted.

Students Entertain At Teacher Meeting

Speech and Music Groups Appear
Saturday Before County And City Instructors.

The teachers' meeting held under the joint auspices of the Crawford County Teachers' Association, and Pittsburg City Association, was attended by a large crowd Saturday.

The principal speaker, whom the associations were expecting did not arrive, and Dr. Millicent McNeil of the College English department was the speaker in the place of Dr. L. M. Dorreen, of Kansas City.

Several organizations from the high school added to the entertainment of the meeting.

The speech department under the direction of Mr. William Row, speech director, presented "And the Villain Still Pursued Her," an old-time melodrama burlesque, that was one of the plays on the recent speech department program. Characters were as follows:

Arthur Denno, the father; Marie Tims, his wife; Lorraine Gire, his daughter; Rollie Emmitt, the villain; Jim Hand, the detective; Pauline Butler, the cousin; Marshall Chambers, the hero, and Kathleen Hanson, the housemaid.

The girls' glee club under the direction of Mr. Gerald M. Carney, music instructor, entertained the teachers with two selections, "In Italy" and "Flower of Dreams."

Cowboys Attack Sophomore With Guns and Ropes

The Indians, or rather the cowboys, are here!

Yessiree! you wouldn't believe it but one of the "sophies" suddenly went "native" and has been caught indulging in the harmless pastime of "playing cowboys."

While on a biology hike recently Robert Innis was suddenly attacked by a couple of little dirty-faced ragamuffins, who threw a rope around his neck and shouted gleefully that they "had" him. While one of the "would-be cowboys" held Robert prisoner the other stood off to one side and looked on with an air of importance.

As for Bob, he just grinned a mischievous grin and squirmed out of the clutches of the "amateur Buck Jones."

Student Moves

Dorris Stultz, sophomore, has moved to Rich Hill Mo., where she will make her home and attend school.

THE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Oh, let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end; but establish the just: for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins.—Psalms 7:9.

Man is unjust, but God is just; and finally justice triumphs.—Longfellow.

GIRLS—TAKE NOTICE.

Do you girls realize how much a boy spends on you to give an evening's entertainment? Here is a brief summary of what's spent on you in one evening:

A date is made to go to a show; there must, of course, be refreshments. This would be all right if it were merely "refreshments." But that word includes the following items:

Barbecued sandwiches, malted milks, soda pop and candy bars. After that you want to go riding, and you can't be content to stay in town. To drive a car you must use gasoline, but this doesn't bother you. You seem to think that cars run on water. Then there is the possibility of a flat tire. This takes another 50¢ out of the wallet or perhaps the price of a new tire. By this time you are "thirsty" or "hungry" again. When you are finally filled you are taken home, (not willingly). Then the next morning you are overheard telling your girl friends you had a very "boring" evening the night before.

Very appreciative, aren't you? Your boring evening just cost the boy friend about $5.

It's not so much the spending that hurts but the girl's lack of appreciation.—J.R.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

Do you boys realize how much a date costs us? We realize, of course, there are a few boys who try their best to show a girl a good time—but there are a great many more who like to spend "a nice quiet evening at home"—the girl's home. There are ever so many things two can do, such as make candy, pop corn, and twiddle your thumbs. Girls don't mean to be mercenary or "gold diggers" but it is pretty tiresome not going any place or doing anything.

Another version is this—do you boys ever think what the girls spend when they invite you to go somewhere? No, of course not, because it has all been arranged before. The price of a dance is from 50 cents to $3. You must remember that girls do not have jobs as boys and must "starve" for a week or two in order to save enough pennies to show the boy an enjoyable evening. Then when he never asks for a date in return it's enough to make you turn sour on all mankind.

In referring to "the cost of a date" just how many boys spend $5 or more a date? None, except the Rockefeller or Vanderbilts. Also the girls, if they are well-bred, do not insist on expensive refreshments or long joy-rides. Many of these rides are taken without the girl even hinting at such a thing.

There may be girls who expect a lot and then call it a "boring" evening but surely the boys are not so timid that they cannot look around for someone else—H. E. C.

DAINTY OSCAR.

Tweet! Tweet!

"Who comes whistling at my door?"

No it's not Barnacle Bill the Sailor, its Dainty Oscar. Surely you'll recognize Dainty Oscar with his genial ways and irrepressible feminine giggles.

Every one enjoys Oscar. Behind a pair of wagging jaws and wad of gum you'll find him. He never fails to powder his face in the mornings and his mother never fails to comb his hair.

Dainty Oscar always makes it a point to let the girls know if their slips hang or if there is a run in their hose and he always brushes their shoulders for them.

Yes! All the girls admire and appreciate Dainty Oscar, the ladies' handy man.—A. R.

IT'S ELMER.

My! Who is this coming down the hall with his hat cocked on his head?

He is either a crown prince or an ignoramus. He isn't a crown prince and he hasn't just received a new title. Princes and men with titles would have manners enough to remove their hats.

He's closer now. Oh yes, it's Elmer. He's the typical high school boy of today, too careless to remove his hat upon entering a building.

Say, Elmer if you could see yourself as others see you, you probably wouldn't be so careless about the little things which are so all important to a well-mannered person.—N. M.

Since so many of the Hollywood stars are dying, maybe some of our town talent will have a chance.

THINGS WE COULD DO WITHOUT

THE DRAGON WHISPERS

(By Harriette Ellen Carter)

Florine Frances is having a difficult time making up her mind between Cecil Enloe and Harry Malard, who is reported to have another "one" in Fort Scott. No one is supposed to know about Florine and Harry. In other words, it's a secret. From all the Dragon hears, they don't let that bother them.

We are always glad to help any of the lovelorn, and Clyde King is next in line. It seems that Clyde is "nuts" about Mary Ellen Massman, but is too bashful to go up and introduce himself to her. So he just goes on pining his heart out. This is leap year, so by giving Mary Ellen the tip maybe she can comfort the poor lad. Remember, Clyde, faint heart never won a fair lady.

Arthur Stringham is in a dilemma these days over Phyllis Pinsart. Art would like very much to like Phyllis but he doesn't know what Phyllis would say about it.

These affairs change so rapidly that it is difficult to keep up with them. Last week Clyde Gilbert's favorite song was "Boots and Saddles," but this week it is "no go." He has given up Cherokee and is devoting his time to Elizabeth Nelson, a sophomore.

At it again! Jean Short and Jack Steele have called it "quits" for good now, after a quarrel which started over Jean's accepting a date with another member of the stronger sex not long ago.

Two high school girls believe in getting the boy friends used to their cooking early. Ginger Pence and Letha Brown cooked a nice little dinner with their own hands and invited their better halves down to partake of it. But all was not so well, for the girls made the two swains wash the dishes. So far we have not heard any hospital reports of Jack Forbes and Bud Fulton.

For an amiable nursemaid call 2414, or Mitchell's residence. They say Jack is ever so handy with little ones, and will do almost anything for them, play horsie, or mama and papa, and even dollies. Jack has practice with his little sister. He stays home with her at nights.

Nell Crowell is simmering over Jimmy Tierney. Jimmy made a date with Nellie and forgot to keep it, but he didn't forget so much to ask another girl for a date. So while Nell was home waiting by the fireside, Jimmy was enjoying a show. The consequences are that nothing more will be heard from the Crowell-Tierney Company.

BOOKS WE LIKE

"Career"

by Phil Stong

Phil Stong, whose "State Fair" brought him fame, writes another book about the worthy young medical student who won the banker's daughter.

The story concerns Carl and Ray Krueger, father and son, who operate a general store in Pittsburg, Ia. Ray, young medical student home on a vacation, falls in love with Sylvia Bartholomew, daughter of Clem Bartholomew, whose financial transactions are not always the best.

The banker's trouble pile up. The bank closes and the Ku Klux Klan makes a call. The hero, deciding to defend the name of the girl he loves, routs the Klansmen.

Carl Krueger steps forward with enough money to finance a new bank and Ray marries Sylvia.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

(The Hirsch Herald, Chicago)

WHISPER, WHISPER.

Public fervor (?) has risen to such a height concerning the weighty problem of whispering during tests that we have been moved, nay driven to speak volubly on the subject. As you know, this practice is wrong. First of all, you should not ask your neighbor for answers because teacher will probably catch you at it and besides you will probably get the wrong answer anyway. There are better ways of getting the answers. And I don't mean by a code of right arm—true, left arm—false! I mean by studying diligently before the test. You will find your credits will come to mean something if you really put forth some effort to gain them!

We wonder if all of our prominent citizens will follow Lindbergh's suit and move to England?

THE SPOTLIGHT SPOTTER

(By Rosemond Hutto)

Cruelty to Dumb Animals . . . Fright . . . Freshman, Maybe? . . . "Skeets" . . . Strange but True . . . Inspiration . . . Dashes . . . Semester's Farewell

"Four more payments and she is mine," read a sign stuck up near a little farm house, which could probably mean almost anything.

Did you ever try to catch anything that was gone before it got out of your sight?

Talk about cruelty to dumb animals. You haven't heard anything yet! You've heard of tying cans to dogs tails, chopping up cats' tails in pieces and the like—but have you heard of anyone's tying two cows' tails together? A friend of ours swears he has done it!

Amusing incident as told by a friend of ours—"Boy, I remember the first time I saw an airplane. I was way out in the field after a cow. I had just reached the cow when the airplane came over so low I could see the two guys in it. I took one look at the thing and beat the cow to the barn."

Quoting a farm friend—"A cow is a college graduate compared to a chicken" . . . "A horse stepped on my foot and I sez: Hey, will you please get off my foot? And he tried to sit down on me."

Seen on the road between Joplin and Pittsburg—A tall, dark, handsome hitch-hiker carrying a suitcase labeled "Skeets—Newark, N. J." Girls, he had the most beautiful tooth-paste smile you could ever hope to see.

Strange but true:—

A fellow threatened to kill another's dog. An argument ensued. A few days later number one saw the dog and shot him. The bullet hit him and he trotted off. Not long after, the two met again.

"Well," said the number two, "you won't be bothered with the dog any more. He died of blood poisoning." And he never knew otherwise!

Individuality is the spice of life they say, but don't carry the thing so far people will think you're half-cracked.

Some folks are shocked at what others do because they don't have nerve enough to do that thing themselves.

At the close of this semester may we express ourselves in the words of Kipling. We have found it as he did in these lines taken from his epitaph: "God bless this world—I found it good."

PUPIL PORTRAITS

Senior Boy

Meet the all-around man. Yes sir! None other than Frank Jameson, football player, debater, dramatic student, and a member of the H-Y, and Pep Club.

He's learning to dance and is doing as well as could be expected. His main passion is eating and blowing his horn on his car and blowing off at the mouth runs a close second.

The object of his affections seems to be a certain senior lass. However he says he'll never be tied down to any ball and chain. If you want to meet a boy who can entertain you with anything you want from soup to nuts then get acquainted with Frank, the man with a thousand ideas.

Senior Girl

Well, well. Look who's here. None other than Miss I. Thrillam All, Margaret Myers, the girl who heads the Girl Reserves and does a neat job of warbling in the glee club. Although she eats anything she can find, she is always wanting more. If you find her gnawing on a library table don't notify the police as she is merely exercising her gums.

She often sits under the street light because it reminds her of Ark City (and Albert Lambert). Anyway with all her faults, she is still a pal to another of her kind, Harriette Ellen Carter. She is full of fun and likes to drive her chevy (when she gets the chance). She is commonly called "Maggie" by her friends. Her favorite pastime is exercising her detective abilities, and chasing down anonymous phone calls. For a real friend, look up Margaret.

CRACKS

FROM THE CLASSES

Gordon Van Pelt—I call 'em cops cause that's the shortest way.

Miss Clara Radell—So it's a wonder he didn't have his block knocked off, as you folks would say.

Jeanne Malcolm—If everyone would get out of my lap, I might be able to do something.

Betty Dorsey—I was singing—that's my echo. Isabelle Forman—It's coming back to haunt her.

Leo Welch—Where is "Western?" Way out west?

Anne Nettels—(in clothing)—Does anyone have an adhesive tape line?

Mr. C. H. Lundquest—(showing Alice Haigler how to put a ribbon on her typewriter)—Look, Alice; the ribbon goes round and round. Alice—And comes out here?

George Cannon—If you're going to kick your feet get them out of my pocket first.

Mary Ellen Massman—I've got to get a picture for my frame.

Dorothy Hanson—I love to hear Marshall Chambers say "I love you."

Nevela Miller—The only reason the journalism class doesn't hang Joe Reilly is because we don't want to get a rope dirty.

Charles Bishop—Don't point your finger at me; it's got a nail in it.

Mr. Charles O. Jordan—If boys drove cars and girls cooked like this class recites the world would be in an awful fix.

Catherine Clements—I spent some money I've never seen.

Dorothy Wintle—Vernita, do you sing well? Vernita Mooney—Of course, I do.

Jack Overman—I was down hearted yesterday.

Miss Sara Stephens—What is chinery? Sophy—Isn't that what they throw at people's weddings?

Charlene Forrester—I am not crazy; I just had a date with my best boy friend.

Jane Baxter—Don't you think Kenny is pretty?

Mr. William Row—Monday I'm going to tie a ring around my stringer so I won't forget that.

Margaret Hamilton—It just drives me crazy. Miss Anna Costello—I've always wondered what was wrong.

DAME FASHION SAYS

Gray is the popular color. Tailored suits are tops. Striped men's wear flannel is the fabric of the moment. Soft blouses and accessories are the smartest.

Pastel shades in wool sweaters with buckskin and patent-leather square-toed oxfords to match.

Skiing togs are the practical things for street wear since cold weather has arrived. Stocking caps and scarfs to match are the rage. And again the Austrian vogue of plus-fours and short jackets comes into the limelight.

Poet's Corner

THE WIND IN THE CORNER.

The wind with a voice that no one knew
 Crept into the chimney and blew and blew;
 A child at play
 Who heard the moan
 Thought, one sorrowing day
 How the wind had blown.
 The wind with a tale no one could tell
 Whistled around the old church bell;
 The sexton awoke
 From troubled sleep
 With quickened breath
 His watch to keep.
 The wind with a soul no one could see
 Whistled 'round the tall chimney;
 The poet heard
 And answer made
 For the wind to him
 Was a serenade.
 The wind with a voice that no one knew
 Crept into the chimney and blew and blew;
 Then all who heard
 Were touched with fear
 Of the warning moan
 Their hearts could hear!

TYPING CLASSES STRIVE TO GAIN FINAL AWARDS

The first year typing classes will begin keeping records of each individual's words per minute and errors, striving for final awards which will be presented toward the end of the school year, according to Mr. C. H. Lundquest, typing instructor.

There will be three awards offered this year to first year typists. Typing 40 words per minute entitles the student to a bronze pin, 50 words per minute award is the silver pin, and for 60 words per minute, the gold pin. The maximum number of errors allowed will be five.

Mr. Lundquest believes that the pins, serving as an encouragement to young typists, offer them an incentive for accuracy and speed.

Student Council

The students are conducting themselves better in the halls, according to the law and order committee, sponsored by Miss Frances E. Palmer. Students are not to cross the campus unless they use the sidewalks, the committee reports.

The health poster has been put up in the hall for the students benefit, according to the sanitation committee, sponsored by Mr. Claude I. Huffman. The rest rooms are clean and the committee asks that the students cooperate to help keep them this way.

Lost and found articles are on display this week, according to report from the public and private property committee, sponsored by Miss Anna D. Costello. The display contains such articles as clothing, bracelets, pens, pencils, hats, gloves, jewelry, and handkerchiefs.

STUDENTS STRIKE FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS RIGHTS

(From the High School)
More than 1,000 students of Duquesne, Penn., High school stayed away from classes for an entire week recently in protest against the refusal of the board to elect two substitute teachers to regular positions. Officials also demanded a student council. Officials refused to arbitrate as long as the strike was in progress. Parents of pupils under 16 were threatened with prosecution under the compulsory attendance law. The strike ended without gaining anything more than an investigation by the board of its own actions.

GIRL RESERVES

The Girl Reserves met at the activity period Wednesday with Miss Florence White's group in charge. Nadine Hirni, president of the group, was in charge with devotions by Gloria Wiles, junior.

A vocal solo was sung by Margaret Myers, president of Girl Reserves. Mrs. John E. White, wife of the printing instructor, told the girls of her travels and experiences in Europe. Mrs. White talked to the girls two weeks ago. They were so interested, they invited her back to talk again at this meeting.

Educator Sees Loss In Education And Culture Fields

(From The Christian Science Monitor)
Toronto—There is today a real danger of serious loss in the field of education and culture by reason of excessive specialization, as narrow specialization tends to obscure the vision of larger, broader relationships. This statement was made by Prof. Duncan McArthur, Deputy Minister of Education, in a recent address at Victoria College convocation in which he advised college students not to become too narrowly involved in their own special line of study.

Specialization has been so intensified in some schools in Ontario that it has been found necessary to hold classes to correlate the various subjects to each other and to the world of practical affairs, he pointed out, declaring that admission of the need for such classes indicated a "tragic failure of the curriculum and teaching in our schools."

Work Is Progressing
The adult education classes, which are being offered by the WPA are progressing satisfactorily, according to Superintendent M. M. Rose. "Most of the work has been turned over to Mrs. R. D. Calvin," Mr. Rose said.

Rubber Replaces Metal

There has recently been produced a new kind of rubber which is said to possess superior properties. This material is made direct from the latex, permitting a more thorough mixture. It can be turned out only in sheet form, but the sheets, through the use of a special solution, can be built up into a variety of shapes. The Malay tin mines were among the first to apply this material, and they used it instead of white iron and manganese for lining launders and chutes of dredges. Although much lighter than the metal lining, which had to be removed every four or five months, the rubber materials have shown no signs of wear after eighteen months of services. Shoes of gravel pumps, throats of hydraulic elevators, and bores of pipes conveying abrasive mixtures have been similarly protected.

Sewer Gas Not So Bad

The old belief that sewer gases might cause disease is discounted by the finding that sewer air contains fewer disease germs than the air in the average home.

Sugar and Spice Needed for Nice Teaching Advise

(From the American Teacher)
Select a young and pleasing personality; trim off all mannerisms of voice, dress, or deportment; pour it a mixture of equal parts of the wisdom of Solomon, the courage of young David, the strength of Samson, and the patience of Job, seasoned with the salt of experience, the pepper of animosity, the oil of sympathy, and a dash of humor; stew for about four years in a classroom, testing occasionally with the fork of criticism thrust in a principal or a superintendent. When done turn, garnish with a small salary and serve hot to the community.

Pittsburg Will Seek Revenge Tonight

Purple To Meet Joplin Team On Lakeside Court

Vengeance for Loss to Eagles on Jan. 7 to Be Sought By Local Cagers.

Dragons Are Favorites

Although Missourians Hold, 25-20 Victory Over Pitt, Locals Should Win Tonight.

Seeking revenge for the defeat which they suffered at the hands of the Joplin high school team early in season, the Purple Dragons will meet the Eagles in the Lakeside gym at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Dragons lost to the Eagles on the Joplin court in a close struggle on Jan. 7. Handicapped by the optical injury of its star guard, Albert Simonic, the Pittsburg team lost a hectic, 25-20 struggle. It was the first time since 1932 that a Joplin team had defeated a Pittsburg quintet on a court, and the Dragons will be out tonight to see that it does not happen again this year.

In the games this season Sturdy, husky center who collected eleven points against the Dragons, has been doing a large percent of the Eagles scoring, and the Dragons will be prepared to stop his scoring tonight.

Having the advantage of playing on their own court, the Dragons are favored to win tonight's game. With the addition of Lee Worthington in the starting lineup in the last few games, the Dragons have found their scoring eyes and should turn back the Eagles tonight.

The probable starting lineup:

| | | |
|-------------|----|----------|
| Pittsburg | P. | Joplin |
| Worthington | F. | Watson |
| Tryon | F. | Warden |
| Gire | C. | Sturdy |
| Simonic | G. | Messick |
| Morgan | G. | Anderson |

PLAYER SKETCH

Kenneth Paxton Gire, the 6-foot, 2-inch guard, is the boy who furnishes much of the Dragon defense.

Gire ranks fourth in the individual scoring rating. He was high point player in the game with Chanute last Friday night, collecting five points before leaving the game on fouls.

Although Gire plays a rough game he can hit the baskets and pass well. This is his first year on the team and he has started every game. He has collected a total of 21 points. Watch him next year!

Schmidt Leads Dragons in Non-league Victory with Ten Counters.

The Pittsburg Dragons won a hard fought, non-league tilt from the Fort Scott high school Tuesday night on the Tigers court.

Except for a few minutes in the first quarter when the Tigers rallied to make the score 3-all and later 5-all, the Purplemen held the upper hand, although the margin was never great. Phillip Schmidt, lanky Dragon forward, found his basket eye again and tallied 10 points for high honors for the game. He was ably assisted by his mates, however, who came to his aid when he needed it.

Kenneth Gire, regular guard, was out of the game with an injury and Worthington was shifted to guard giving Schmidt his chance. Worthington tossed a free throw through the hoop in the first few minutes of play and Schmidt followed close with a short shot to put Pittsburg ahead, 3-0. However, Willard and Baird tied it up soon. Worthington tallied twice with charity throws but Wagner immediately scored with a set up tying the game 5-5.

At the close of the first period Morgan and Tryon hit from the side to give the Dragons a 9-5 margin.

Fort Scott rallied to cut the margin to 12-10 but at the end of the third canto the Dragons swung into a fast attack that boosted the margin 7 point.

In a reserve game the Pittsburg seconds romped on the Tiger cubs, 39-9 with Lance, Fadler, Masquelier and Begando playing important scoring parts. The half-time score was 25-0. The box scores were:

Else) and Fish-Tush, another aristocrat. Ko-Ko is in a dilemma. He has behatted no one since he became Lord High Executioner, and the Mikado has commanded that there be an execution within the month or Ko-Ko must cut off his own head. Since Nanki-Pooh is resolved to die, Ko-Ko begs him to be executed at the end of a month. To this Nanki-Pooh agrees if he may immediately marry Yum-Yum. Preparations for the wedding go forward, when Ko-Ko happens upon a law which states that when a married man is beheaded, his wife must be buried alive. Yum-Yum regards this as a deterrent and refuses to marry Nanki-Pooh. The Mikado and his suite are meanwhile drawing near the city.

"The soft-hearted Ko-Ko cannot bring himself to kill Nanki-Pooh so with connivance he makes affidavit that Nanki-Pooh has been executed, gives Nanki-Pooh and Yum-Yum permission to marry and arranges their flight from the country.

"When the Mikado arrives, accompanied by Katisha, he reads of Nanki-Pooh's execution and confounds Ko-Ko by informing him that he has killed the Heir Apparent. For this crime, according to Japanese law, Ko-Ko must himself be put to death. Therefore Ko-Ko tells Nanki-Pooh, who is about to go on his honeymoon with Yum-Yum, that he must be brought to life again and make himself known to the Mikado, his father. This Nanki-Pooh refuses to do while Katisha remains single; for unless she marries someone else he will be punished for not marrying her himself. Ko-Ko relieves the situation by becoming Katisha's suitor and she accepts him. Then Nanki-Pooh and Yum-Yum present themselves to the Mikado and receive his forgiveness."

A survey in connection with the coming Olympic games showed there are 19,130 eating places in Berlin, of which 11,200 are licensed to serve alcoholic drinks.

Pitt Cagers Lose To Comets, 27-13

Ralph Millir Leads Chanute To Victory Over Dragons Friday Night.

The Pittsburg cage fans got their first chance to see the mighty Ralph Miller, Chanute star, perform on a local court last Friday night when the Chanute Comets handed the Purple Dragons a 27-13 setback on the Lakeside court.

The Dragons, hosts of the affair, provided a very entertaining evening for Mr. Miller, but Miller rose to the occasion by, in turn, providing a somewhat hot evening for the Dragons.

The Comet ace was the leading scorer, tallying thirteen points in five field goals and three charity tosses. Kenneth Gire, Purple center, led the Dragons with two baskets and a free throw.

The Dragons started the fray in an encouraging manner taking a 4-0 lead on baskets by Lee Worthington and Jack Tryon, Purple forwards, but the lead was soon to change hands. Miller tied the score at 6-all, and Thurman, Comet guard, swished a long shot, then Miller dunked three 2 pointers in a row into the basket to put the score at 14-6.

A Dragon rally in the third quarter lessened the Comet lead to four points, the score being 17-13 in favor of Chanute and as the fourth stanza started Pittsburg chances seemed good but the Blue Comets put on a wild finish, collecting ten points while they held the Dragons scoreless the remainder of the game.

The young Dragons, or a sophomore team, handed the junior high schools' squad a 26-13 trouncing in a preliminary to the main affair.

Taken from the Parsons Reporter:

Well fancy this, those little rascals from Pittsburg beat Independence, Friday night, by a score of 23 to 21. It must have been a very exciting game but we are quite surprised, you know Pittsburg always wins by big scores. What's the matter lads? You must be slipping.

Is Pittsburg slipping? Listen, you Parsons Reporter, if the Dragons had lost as many games in the last few years as your Vikings have we would hang our heads instead of making what are supposed to be wise cracks in the paper.

The record of the field goals attempted and missed by the incomparable Ralph Miller shows that in last Friday's game Miller attempted 22 goals from the field and sank five of these shots. In four attempts Miller collected three points on charity tosses.

Don't feel surprised about the seventeen misses as Miller was almost completely smothered by three or four Dragons very time he got within scoring distance of the basket.

"Yours truly" has an apology to make. In a recent issue of The Booster in the "Sports Shorts" column a paragraph appeared denouncing a certain sophomore team for challenging the Canino-Heady home room team. Well, the sophomore team, through a bit of questionable officiating and score keeping, defeated the senior quintet, 28-27, last Thursday afternoon.

An amusing incident occurred during the half time period of the fray. One of the officials, a sophomore, came over to where the senior squad was resting and said, "I'll try to give you guys something this half."
