Biographical Note
Kay Ireland Dunning is an alumnae of the Kansas State College of Pittsburg (now Pittsburg State University). Dunning is a retired secondary home economics teacher and counselor of St. Paul High School in Chetopa, Kansas.

Scope and Content Note
This collection contains primary and secondary resources and is divided into the following series:

The Design series contains materials that pertain to design works created by Kay Ireland Dunning. Items in the series include a suit jacket and skirt, circa 1964; watercolor paintings of interior designs; patterns for dresses; instructions on taking measurements and measuring out button holes.

The Correspondence series contains correspondence between ancestor W.E. Ireland (a senator) and president of the Kansas State Teachers College, President W.A. Brandenburg.
The Books series contains two books. The first book is Designing Your Own Dress Pattern by Helen Nicol Tanous. The second book is Writing with a Purpose: A First Course in College Composition by James M. McCrimmon.

Processing Note

Collection formally processed in November 2017, by MaryJo Noblit Johnson (Graduate Assistant)
