Welcome! We are very happy to host the Four State High School Festival Band, and we are quite pleased and honored to have two esteemed guest conductors with us this year -- Dr. Jack Stamp and Mr. Kevin Sedatole.

Pittsburg State University believes in the development of the whole person: physically, mentally, spiritually and aesthetically. It is essential that education should cover all facets of life, and all of us should be given the opportunity to partake of the beauty and enjoyment of the fine and performing arts. I know that your musical experience will be enriched by your opportunity to work with Dr. Stamp and Mr. Sedatole.

I hope that your visit to Pittsburg State is a pleasant one and that you will come back soon. If there is anything we can do to help you while you are here, just let us know.

It is a pleasure for the College of Arts and Sciences to join in welcoming the members of the Four-State High School Festival Band to the campus for this important annual event. We are very proud of our Music Department, and the band program under the direction of Mr. James Tapia is an important part of that program. We are very pleased that Jack Stamp and Kevin Sedatole have agreed to come and serve as the guest conductors. All of us on the campus hope that you will have a pleasant and worthwhile experience.

The faculty, staff and students of the Pittsburg State University Department of Music are delighted to again have the opportunity of hosting the Four State Festival Bands. We wish to welcome and congratulate the young musicians who have been selected to participate in what promises to be a most rewarding and worthwhile musical experience. A warm welcome is likewise extended to their parents and band directors, whose guidance and support contributes significantly toward the success of this day.
