Biographical Note The Allegro Music Club was a women's musical organization formed in 1937 in Parsons, Kansas. Their intent was to "bring together lovers of music and to maintain an interest in all music forms." Often meeting in the home of one of the members, the club presented multiple music programs throughout the year, both privately and for the public. The club mainly focused on classical music, however they did present other genres of music on certain occasions. The Allegro Music Club worked closely with the Parsons Junior
