De picting four phases of Grecian life

Of paradise that has survived the fall.”

(B) “Thou dancer of two thousand years,
Thou dancer of today
What silent music fills thine ears.”

(C) “We commoners stood by the street facade,
And caught a glimpse of the cavalcade
We saw the bride,
In diamond pride
With jeweled maidens to guard her side.”

(D) “To Mount Olympia, they did climb,
To win the laurels of their time.”

Dance of the Hours .................................. Ponchielli-LaGiconda

The hours of the day come together in regular sequence. Each fear the other and play alone, taunting the other hours. Light fears darkness and darkness fears the light. Gradually the crescendo of the music increases and all greet each other in wild delight and dance together in perfect harmony, symbolizing the necessity of unity in all of life.
