Institutional Need for an IR

- What is an IR?
  - Collecting, preserving & disseminating scholarship
  - Publish & showcase institutional scholarship

- Role of an IR
  - Manage open access to digital content produced by the university
  - Encourages knowledge sharing
  - Permits quick and easy dissemination of scholarship across institutions
Gold vs Green Open Access

Gold Open Access
Gold or “pay” to publish Open Access
- Articles is made freely accessible online to anyone anywhere immediately upon publication
- Authors, their funders or institution pay an article publication charge for every article published

Green Open Access
“Self-Archiving”
- Depositing a free copy of a digital document on the internet in order to provide open access to it
- Access without payment to a version of the publication via a repository, often after an embargo period.
Institutional Repositories - Why we need them...

- Showcase scholarly works
- Create a public forum
- Maximize research impact through searching
- Manage & preserve digital collections
- Increase professional visibility

Benefits:
- Broader dissemination & increased access
- Supports faculty/student success

Journal of International & Interdisciplinary Business Research

This journal of international & interdisciplinary business research publishes papers with either an international or interdisciplinary focus and particularly values papers with both international and interdisciplinary elements. The papers published in this journal constitute original theoretical ideas and/or empirical insights at least one of the core academic business disciplines—including accounting, finance, economics, management, marketing, international business, strategy, entrepreneurship, business law, logistics, informatics, and ethics.

The Journal of Business & Leadership (2006-2012) is a refereed publication. The aims of this journal is to provide a forum for current research, techniques, theories, issues, trends, and innovations in the business and leadership fields. All manuscripts submitted to this journal will be subjected to a double-blind peer review process.
